Three Year $4.56m Defence Contract

Solid State plc (AIM: SOLI), the specialist value added component supplier and design-in manufacturer of computing, power, and communications products, is pleased to announce that its Value Added Supplies division has secured a three year contract renewal with a global defence technology customer to supply components for its defence aerospace programme.

The contract, which has been awarded following the successful completion of the initial three year contract awarded to Solid State Supplies, will add approximately $800,000 to Solid State's open order book in the first year, with a total value of $4.56m to be realised over its duration as staged delivery dates are confirmed.

Commenting on the Contract, John Macmichael, Managing Director of Solid State Supplies, said:

"The renewal contract with this longstanding customer, who is very well-respected in its sector, is a testament to Solid State's emphasis on good customer relationships and the market-leading nature of our value added products."
